Mrs. Wilson Fields dies

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Belle Salyer Fields, widow of L. W. Fields, will be conducted at 2 p.m. Friday at the Whitesburg Methodist Church by the Rev. Welby O. Patten and the Rev. Bee Day Sr.

Burial will be in the Salyer-Fields-Davis cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Ben Bowen, Morris Mullins, Orval Hughes, Dan Combs, James B. Brown, Follace Fields, Bill Blair and Emmett G. Fields.

Honorary bearers will be Dr. R. D. Collins, Arch Jenkins, J. L. Hays, Dr. B. C. Bach, Dr. Owen Pigman, Sam Addington, Stephen Combs Jr., French Hawk, Dr. P. E. Slone, Dr. Ed Crawford, S. M. Banks, E. B. Duncan and H. H. Fields.

Mrs. Fields died at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday at the home of a son, Leroy W. Fields, after suffering a heart attack. She had been in poor health for several years. She was 81.

Mrs. Fields, a native of Wise, Va., was a daughter of the late D. Wallace and Hester Bruce Salyer. Her grandfather, Col. L. H. N. Salyer, was a colonel in the Confederate Army during the Civil War and was one of the early settlers of Letcher County.

As a young girl, she moved with her family to Hindman, where she lived until she was married in 1902. She and her husband set up housekeeping in Fieldcliff, the white frame house which overlooks Whitesburg from a cliff above the Kentucky River at the end of Main Street. The house was the first one in Whitesburg to have a bathtub.

Her husband, an attorney, practiced law here and was active in coal land acquisition. He helped to develop the Kingscreek cannel coal area and dealt extensively in coal lands.

The Fields family moved in 1920 to Lexington, where Fields practiced law for 17 years. Then they went to DeLand, Fla., where they stayed seven years. They returned to Whitesburg about 26 years ago and lived at Fieldcliff until after the death of Fields in 1951.

Mrs. Fields was active in club work. She was interested in her family history and in the history of the Civil War. She was a life member of Hester Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star and a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Woman's Club and the Methodist Church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Don Brown of Whitesburg and Mrs. Louise Kelsey of St. Petersburg, Fla.; two sons, Leroy Fields, Whitesburg, and D. Wallace Fields, Tampa, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. O. W. Danner, Knoxville, Tenn.

The body is at Craft Funeral Home.

First aid, nursing may be taught here

A representative of the American Red Cross will be in Letcher County next week to discuss organization of classes in first aid and home nursing.

W. Lovell Williams, Letcher County safety and civil defense director, said he is in need of instructors for the courses. Anyone interested should write him at Box 507, Whitesburg, he said.

Hindman teacher may get Jenkins principalship

Eldon Davidson, a teacher at Hindman High School, appeared likely today to get the job of principal of Jenkins High School.

Davidson has a master's degree from Morehead State College. He taught seven years at Cordia before going to Hindman four years ago.

Supt. of Schools Lee Johnson said that as of today Davidson has the highest qualifications of any applicant for the job. Unless someone better qualified applies within the next two or three days, Davidson will be employed, Johnson said.

Johnson said some other applicants have asked for more salary than the board feels it can pay. The board will pay state scale plus one month's extra salary plus $50 for each teacher supervised, Johnson said.

The board has hired David

Banks, who has been a biology teacher at Jenkins High, as principal at McRoberts to replace John Holbrook, who became assistant principal at Fleming-Neon in the Letcher County school system. It has re-employed Dennis Dixon as head teacher at Burdine School. Johnson said he foresaw no special meetings of the board before its regular session Aug. 14.

Baptist associations start meetings

Members of Old Regular Baptist congregations will start their annual association meetings this week end.

The first to meet will be the Northern New Salem Association which will assemble at Ashland Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Thornton Union Association will meet Aug. 18, 19 and 20 at Blair Branch. Elder Charlie Cornett is the moderator.

The two Indian Bottom Associations, formed during a disagreement last year, will meet Sept. 1, 2 and 3. The group moderated by Frank Fugate will meet on Breedings Creek. The other group, which is the one recognized by the other associations, will meet in Lincoln County. Elder Jim Pratt is its moderator.

The Union Association, largest of all, will meet Sept. 15 at the Bethel Church in Jenkins.

PTA members at school

Five members of the Letcher Consolidated Parent-Teacher Association were among the 508 delegates who attended the sixth annual short course in PTA leadership at the University of Kentucky last week.

They were Bertha Hall, Patsy Howard, Rachel Fields and Mary Ann Adams.

The group heard discussions on airborne television, civil defense, teacher education, school curriculum, proposed legislation and parent and family life recreation.

They received instruction in policies and principles of PTA, program, legislation, reading and library service, publications, exhibits, memberships, mental health and high school.

Mining classes to end Aug. 10

The mining classes now being conducted in Whitesburg by the State Department of Mines and Minerals will end Aug. 10.

The Department will hold an examination for foremen in Hazard Aug. 17 and 18. Anyone who wants to take the test should call Bob Dixon at GE 6-2138 in Hazard or contact him at his office in Hazard or at the courthouse in Whitesburg Aug. 8.

The location of the exam will be decided when the number interested in taking it is known.

X-ray unit coming

The mobile X-ray unit from the State Health Department will be in Letcher County this month.

It will arrive in Jenkins Aug. 8 and will be in Neon Aug. 9 and Whitesburg Aug. 10 and 11.

Health Officer R. Dow Collins said all school employees, teachers, lunchroom workers and other school employees should be X-rayed. All persons who are now food handlers, including waitresses, cooks or any others who prepare or handle foods, also should be examined, Dr. Collins said.

Persons who have had close contact with Tb. cases and have positive skin tests are especially urged to have X-rays made, he said.

No person under 20 should go for an X ray unless he has a positive skin test, Dr. Collins said. Persons over 20 should have an X-ray examination every year.

ASC sign-up reopens

R.B. Caudill, chairman of the Letcher County ASC Committee, announced today that cost-sharing with farmers is available through the Agricultural Conservation Program for the purpose of carrying out needed soil and water conservation practices during the second sign-up period for 1961.

This period began July 1 and ends December 31, 1961. Farmers who plan to carry out conservation measures this fall and who need assistance may request practice cost-sharing at the county ASCS office, Caudill said.

Practices which farmers may apply and are available for cost-sharing fall into three main categories: (1) the establishment of permanent protective cover, (2) the protection of established cover, and (3) conservation and disposal of water. These soil and water conservation practices include the establishment of permanent grass-legume seedings for soil protection; the installation of stockwater facilities, including ponds, springs, and pipelines; improvement of a stand of forest trees; constructing drainage systems; and establishing waterways.

In addition to the above practices, the 1961 program is now open to receive applications for cost-sharing for the use of agricultural lime. It is especially recommended that lime be used on established grass fields. "Lime is a good investment," Caudill said, "since it supplies calcium and magnesium which are needed for plant growth." Farmers are reminded that soil samples for the fields to be limed are to be taken and submitted to the county agent's office. Cost-sharing for lime is based upon soil analysis.

EDITORIAL

Why not build roads for tourists?

The Kentucky Department of Highways and Commissioner Henry Ward have been subjected to a lot of unnecessary criticism the past few weeks over the department's decision to resurface the road leading to La Citadelle Motel in Hazard.

For many years, the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and other private promotional organizations, along with many state and federal agencies, have been telling Kentuckians that perhaps our greatest chance for future prosperity lies in the field of maximum development of our tourist industry.

The commonwealth itself for some years has spent several hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to maintain a state publicity organization designed to lure people all over the nation to come to Kentucky for their vacations. The intense private and public programs have begun to pay off in a manner that is obvious to any motorist who happens to notice the great number of out-of-state cars on our highways.

If, as we are told, the tourist industry offers so much future for Kentucky, why should there be a fuss raised when the state spends highway funds to build a road to a tourist facility--such as a motel, a hotel, a park--or for that matter, any other publicly or privately owned facility that will attract a flow of traffic?

Surely when General Electric located a giant factory in Louisville millions of dollars were spent rebuilding Louisville roads and streets to accommodate the giant flow of traffic which resulted. No one fussed about this. And when other industrial plants are built, roads are constructed. This is as it should be.

A motel or hotel itself is a small industry, providing employment. In addition, the hotels or motels have as their primary purpose the rendering of service to the motoring public. Why shouldn't they be entitled to roads?

In our judgment, the development of La Citadelle has put Hazard on the map, so to speak, more than any other thing that has happened in that city during the past decade. Almost every traveler into Eastern Kentucky makes a point to visit the place to take a look, and perhaps to eat or spend the night.

Eastern Kentucky needs a dozen other La Citadelles if it truly is to emerge as a tourist center. Developers of such projects should be encouraged in every way possible, and the relatively small amount of cost to the state for access road development should be measured against the vast potential for future tourist growth such enterprises afford this region.

Instead of criticizing the highway commissioner, we would like to thank Mr. Ward for recognizing a need and doing something about it.

VACATION TIME BRINGS VISITORS IN TO ULVAH FROM MANY FAR-AWAY STATES

By Lovell Caudill

Vacation time is here again. The Browns have visited for a month. Sallie Brown has had her daughter, Mary, and her family for two weeks. The Mary Carrs have left for their home in Kansas.

Last Wednesday was a family reunion for all the J. H. Brown family. They gathered at the old homeplace, where a daughter, Lisha Dixon, lived and had a wonderful supper with Lisha. About 50 attended.

On July 20 the Brown family gathered at Wendell Brown's for a birthday supper in honor of Lisha Dixon.

Our deepest sympathy goes to the family of Cephus Mosely, who died last week.

Aunt Cinda Dixon visited with Polly Ann Caudill last week.

It was the first time the old sisters had met in several years.

Joe and Stella Collins have returned from Knoxville, Tenn., after a week's visit with the L. D. Foleys.

Billy Ray Caudill and wife Martha Jane are home after two years of military police duty with Uncle Sam.

Rowen Brown has left the Sta to serve in Germany with Army.

The report is that D. Y. Fie is one on the rub down list, sun-burned his stomach wh mowing the lawn. (Better h that shirt, D. Y.)
